

Trinity Evangelical Divinity School

Did You Know...

- Besides its Deerfield, IL main campus, Trinity Evangelical Divinity School has seven extension sites in the Midwest, and one them is right here in Akron, OH at The Chapel.
- Students can take Master's level coursework from some of the most respected theologians in the world, right here.
- Courses are offered in flexible formats that cater to those that work traditional full time jobs during business hours. Courses are offered either during evenings or weekends. These courses are perfect both for one training to be a pastor or church leader, as well as one simply wanting to grow deeper in their understanding of the Bible and theology.
- Courses may be taken for credit or non-credit. The cost for credit is $330 per credit hour, and the cost to audit is $220 per class.
- Students can earn a Masters of Arts in Christian Studies degree or Masters of Arts in Ministry degree at the extension site in as little as two years. Only one course must be taken at the Deerfield campus (usually in a one-week modular format during the summer. This will soon change, making the entire degree able to be completed at the Akron Site.).
- Students can even work towards an MDiv Equivalent through the extension site, which would qualify students to enter into a DMin program.
- We all take very seriously our responsibility to train the next generation of pastors and church leaders. We encourage you to take advantage of the TEDS training at the Akron Extension Site!
